In short

The Matra Rule of Law Training Programme is designed to strengthen institutional capacity in the field of rule of law within government organisations in Albania, Armenia, Bosnia-Herzegovina, Georgia, Kosovo, Moldova, Montenegro, North Macedonia, Serbia, Turkey, and Ukraine. To this end seven training programmes are offered per year, each introducing the participants to best practices in a wide range of rule of law themes. Through interactive sessions combining theory, practical skills and study visits, policy advisors, members of the judiciary and other civil servants working in the government and justice sectors acquire the knowledge and skills necessary to drive reforms in their home countries. In addition, by taking part in the training programme, participants become part of a large transnational network of alumni, lecturers and relevant government departments in the Netherlands and in the target countries. This network offers a platform for learning, exchange and collaboration. As members of this network, all trainees are invited to participate in an Alumni Day, organised in one of the participating countries, between six to ten months after the training programme.

The Matra Rule of Law Training Programme is designed and delivered by the Netherlands Helsinki Committee, Leiden Law School, and The Hague Academy for Local Governance. It is financed by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Netherlands, for a period of four years (2017- 2020).

This training on integrity of civil servants is intended for:

Senior civil servants and policy makers at public institutions from different levels of government (national, regional, local) such as Ministries, local governments, and anti-corruption agencies charged with the development and implementation of integrity plans and policies for civil servants in their respective countries are invited to apply. Participants will be selected who can offer a valuable and active contribution to the learning process and who are in the position to implement the newly gained knowledge and insights in their respective organisations.

The maximum number of participants is 36. The total will represent a balance in the number of participants from the individual countries.

Introduction

The European Union in its relations with pre-accession and Eastern Partnership countries requires stable government institutions that should be able to guarantee democracy, rule of law, human rights and protection of minorities. To promote the development of such institutions, integrity policies and corruption prevention activities are important conditions. In addition, issues of integrity and corruption prevention need to be dealt with in order to realise the five principles of good governance in the EU, as described in the White Paper on European Governance: transparency, participation, accountability, effectiveness and coherence. The training programme Integrity of Civil Servants discusses how to design, implement and enforce plans and policies to promote the integrity of civil servants, and contribute to transparent and accountable government institutions.

Objectives

The training programme aims to increase understanding of the Dutch and European framework for integrity policies and the national context of the participants' countries. The course provides insight in the roles and responsibilities of the different actors in promoting integrity of civil servants. The seven building blocks for building integrity will be discussed, as well as coherence of integrity policies with other institutional instruments such as HR-policy. Examples from The Netherlands will be discussed and European organisations such as OLAF will present their work in the field of corruption prevention. In addition, knowledge and skills to develop a sustainable policy for the promotion of integrity of civil servants at different government levels will be enhanced. Special attention will be paid to obstacles and dilemmas in the implementation process and how to overcome them.

Approach and structure

By being demand-driven in nature and by stimulating active participation, the training programme strives to achieve lasting results. When participants leave they are sufficiently equipped to implement the newly gained knowledge and insights in their respective organisations. The training programme offers a careful balance between three mutually reinforcing components: theory, practical skills, and study visits.

A social programme will facilitate network development between the participants from the various countries as well as between the participants and their Dutch counterparts.

Upon successful completion of the programme – which includes attendance to all components of the programme – participants will receive a certificate.

On completion of the training, participants:

- Will have insight in the importance of integrity for well-functioning, transparent government institutions and for economic growth;
- Will know how the Dutch policy for integrity of civil servants is shaped and organised;
- Will be able to use the acquired knowledge, skills and best practices as a source of inspiration for dealing with challenges related to integrity policies in their countries;
- Have exchanged knowledge and experiences among peers;
- Have established new professional cross-border networking relations.

Experts

All contributors to the programme are carefully selected and have practical experience with designing and/or implementing of integrity policies. They come from the European Union, the Netherlands Ministry of the Interior and Kingdom Relations, the Dutch National Police, the Municipality of Amsterdam, Transparency International and Leiden University.

Admission requirements

Important points on which the selection of participants will largely be based are:

- The participant should clearly demonstrate an immediate need for training on integrity of civil servants
- The participant should have experience with issues of integrity and anti-corruption measures in his/her country
- The participant should be able to attend all days of the training course
- The participant should be committed to attend the Alumni Days which will be organised 6-12 months after the training
- The participant should command a good level of spoken and written English
- The participant should be highly motivated and enthusiastic
- The participant should be comfortable sharing his/her knowledge with fellow participants (solo presentation during the programme and regular knowledge sharing in the digital learning environment will be required)
- Signed employer's statement

How to apply

Please read the admission requirements carefully. Candidates who satisfy all of the requirements may proceed to complete the application form which is available at www.nhc.nl/matrarolt.
